“THE ARCHITECTURE OF POWER: The Islamic World, 7th-21st Centuries”

Presented by:

Dr. Jere L. Bacharach

Professor Emeritus at the Department of History
University of Washington, Seattle

Dr. Jere L. Bacharach is Professor Emeritus at the Department of History of the University of Washington, Seattle. His research centers around Islamic History, Islamic art and archaeology, and Islamic Numismatics. Bacharach received his Master’s degree from Harvard University and his Ph.D. from the University of Michigan. He served as a member of the U.W. faculty between 1967 and 2007. While a member of the University of Washington faculty, Bacharach served as Chair at the Department of History, Director of the Henry M. Jackson School of International Studies, and Interim Chair at the Department of Near Eastern Languages and Civilization. He has also served as President of the Middle East Studies Association of North America, President of the Middle East Medievalists, and President of the Association for Professional Schools of International Affairs.

DATE:
Sunday 5th May, 2013

TIME:
6:00 pm

VENUE:
Multipurpose Room

This lecture will be conducted in English