

THE CENTER for CONTINUING EDUCATION (C.C.E.) at THE AMERICAN UNIVERSITY of KUWAIT

presents

Exam Preparation Courses

The Center for Continuing Education offers a range of preparation courses for internationally recognized examinations. These programs cater to all learning levels, from high school to undergraduate and postgraduate students.

Preparation Course Outlines:

SAT-GED 40-hours per course for KD 199
IGCSE 60-hour course for KD 299
GMAT-GRE 40-hours per course for KD 325
Private classes are also available upon request

Course Outcomes:

GED Preparation

The GED (General Education Diploma) tests five subject areas, which when passed certify the student has the equivalent of an American or Canadian high school diploma. Test subjects include Writing, Social Studies, Science, Reading and Mathematics.

GMAT Preparation

The GMAT (Graduate Management Admissions Test) exam is the most popular business school test and is used to screen applicants for the MBA and other graduate business school programs. It measures verbal, mathematical, and analytical writing skills. It does not measure your knowledge of business. The exam is used at many North American and international schools, including Kuwait University.

GRE Preparation

The GRE (Graduate Record Examination) is used as a screening tool for graduate students in the United States and Kuwait. It measures verbal reasoning, quantitative reasoning, and analytical writing. The GRE is designed to reflect the kind of thinking students will be doing in graduate school.

IGCSE Preparation

The IGCSE (International General Certificate of Secondary Education) is a Cambridge developed, international qualification for school students, and prepares students for further academic work.

SAT Preparation

The SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) is a standardized test designed to assess academic readiness for critical reading, writing and math skills.

Registration Open:
