

DARTMOUTH-AUK COLLABORATION

GETTING YOUR RESEARCH NOTICED:

FROM KEEPING TRACK TO KEEPING SCORE IN ACADEMIC PUBLISHING WORKSHOP/PRESENTATION

Dr. Anderson conducted research on tribalism in Afghanistan, Islamic cosmology in Pakistan, and more recently on the information revolution in the Middle East where he has studied Internet pioneering in Jordan, Egypt, Syria, Saudi Arabia, and Qatar. He has lectured widely in North America and Europe and served as co-director of the Arab Information Project at Georgetown University's Center for Contemporary Arab Studies where he initiated a course on the Internet in the Arab world. His current interests are civil society, cyberculture, and globalization in the Internet age.
